

PROGRAM IN AMERICAN INDIAN STUDIES

Philip Stevens, Director (Phinney 115, 83844-1110; phone 208-885-8701; pstevens@uidaho.edu; www.uidaho.edu/class/interdisciplinary/aist (<http://www.uidaho.edu/class/interdisciplinary/aist/>)).

The University of Idaho's American Indian Studies (AIS) Program engages with Indigenous knowledge(s) and cultures(s) as dynamic, vibrant, diverse, place-based, and resilient. The AIS Program seeks to educate, contemplate, and study the deep continuities of Indigenous knowledge(s) rooted in place and sophisticated problem solving engaged across time and space, past and the present. By privileging the voices and experiences of Indigenous peoples themselves, AIS offers

1. a place on the University of Idaho campus for critical Indigenous thought, pedagogies, and scholarship;
2. the dissemination of Indigenous knowledge to better inform global engagement conducted at the University of Idaho and the region; and
3. intellectual engagement on historical and contemporary legal, political, academic, scientific, and other issues across the Indigenous curriculum.

Central to the vision of the American Indian Studies Program are intellectual pursuits led by sustained and engaged relationships with Indigenous communities.

The American Indian Studies Program is based on the following objectives:

1. Recruitment and retention: Enhance the recruitment and retention of Indian students, as well as other students of ethnic heritage, attending and graduating from U of I.
2. Intercultural communication: Provide an opportunity for face-to-face Indian/non-Indian exchange of ideas, perceptions, and misperceptions about Indian and Euro-American culture, including a meaningful context for intercultural communications and understanding, and solution of problems of bias and stereotyping.
3. Cultural appreciation: Foster a better understanding of and appreciation for the vitality, breadth, depth, and rich diversity of components of contemporary Indian cultures (e.g., arts, economics, literature, government, and social and religious life), as well as their histories.
4. Rigorous curriculum with an interdisciplinary approach: Enable students to acquire the knowledge, critical methods, and research skills of the academic fields that comprise the minor, including, but not limited to, anthropology, English, history, sociology, and teacher education.
5. Application: Provide an Indian pedagogy and knowledge base, i.e., an Indian perspective, that would complement and be integrated with students' other academic fields of study (e.g., business, education, engineering, forestry and natural resources, health care, humanities, or social sciences), preparing students with the skills and expertise to address and successfully meet the various issues and challenges faced in Indian communities.
6. Collaboration: Build partnership relationships between U of I and regional tribes (Idaho and adjacent western states), especially the Coeur d'Alene and Nez Perce Tribes, improving communications, educational delivery, the sharing of expertise, and ability to address common concerns and problems.

7. Institutional growth: Advance the concerns and issues faced in Indian communities, as well as an Indian pedagogical and knowledge perspective within the university and academic communities.
8. Inclusivity: Serve both Indian and non-Indian students and communities alike. Through the offered curriculum and sponsored activities, the overarching objective of the American Indians Studies Program is to provide a transformational educational experience for students.

Acknowledging the vital role native languages continue to play in American Indian communities and the need for their preservation, a curriculum in Nez Perce language is offered and upon completion of two years of study can be used to satisfy the Bachelor of Arts' language requirement at the University of Idaho.

Students enrolled in the American Indian Studies Minor will be required to complete an academic service learning internship in collaboration with an area tribe. This internship helps fulfill the program's vision and objectives of application and collaboration through the American Indian/Indigenous value of reciprocity.

Joint-listed with LAW 9490

Study of Tribal Sovereignty and interaction with the U. S. government at various levels with an emphasis on treaty rights, jurisdictional issues, the trust relationship, protection of lands, the eras of U. S. Indian policy, and the continued assertion of tribal rights and interests. LAW 9490 is a law class and will be graded based on the norms and expectations to which law students are normally held. AIST 4200 is an undergraduate course that will be assessed on a P/F basis according to the general norms and expectations for an upper division undergraduate course.

AIST 4220 Contemporary Pacific Northwest Indians (3 credits)

General Education: American Experience

Cross-listed with ANTH 4220, RELS 4220

Joint-listed with ANTH 5220

This course is intended to impart an understanding of the vitality and rich diversity of contemporary Pacific Northwest American Indian societies, their histories, and their literatures, e. g. , in the arts and expressive culture, in governmental affairs both indigenous and external, in economics, ecological relations and natural resources, in health care, and in family, social and religious life, in oral traditions, in world views and cultural values. This understanding is inclusive of both indigenous cultural, as well as contact-historical, expressions. An understanding of Tribal sovereignty and its varied meanings is key to this outcome. Cooperative: open to WSU degree-seeking students.

AIST 4350 (s) Tribal Elders Series (3 credits, max 9)

Cross-listed with ANTH 3210

Elders from neighboring tribes surrounding the University of Idaho will share a tribal epistemology that each tribe considers to be essential to an education of an adult. Such educational perspective may often be missing/misrepresented or misunderstood in current university pedagogy. This class will place an emphasis on contemporary indigenous voices. This course will have a subtopic heading to incorporate the possibility of having many neighboring tribes participate. Typically Offered: Fall.

AIST 4450 Indigenous Ways of Knowing (3 credits)

Joint-listed with ANTH 5450

The course is intended as an introduction to issues of cultural, racial, ethnic and linguistic diversity that arise in American school and society. In particular we will be looking at indigenous epistemological comparison with Western educational models. The central question for the course will be: Why is educational attainment different for different groups in society, and how does that difference relate to social stratification characteristics of the larger society? We will also try to answer other questions: What is the impact of cultural and linguistic diversity on the various institutions of society, including family, schools, and the economic system? What policies and programs have been developed in the US and other societies to deal with cultural diversities? These and other questions will be the basis for our reading and discussions Typically Offered: Fall.

AIST 4530 Tribal Sovereignty and Federal Policy (3 credits)

Cross-listed with ANTH 4570

Joint-listed with ANTH 5570

This course provides an in-depth understanding of how colonial and Federal Indian Policies have impacted the lives of tribes and their surrounding communities. Through a survey of the changing eras of policy (conquest, preRevolutionary approaches, the Marshall Trilogy, the Treaty Era, Allotment and Termination, and Self-Determination), students will learn about the forces that have shaped tribal communities, and a deeper appreciation for tribes' efforts to restore and exercise their sovereignty. Tribal Sovereignty as it applies to land management, natural resources and community development will be a focal area. Typically Offered: Spring.

AIST 4780 Tribal Nation Economics & Law (3 credits)

Joint-listed with LAW 9280

Survey of economic development strategies by various Tribal Nations, including an overview of federal incentive programs and disincentives for the growth of strong tribal economies. Tribal legal codes, commercial projects, and federal Indian law parameters will be discussed. Topics will include: the tribal government-owned corporate model, gaming enterprises, economic diversification, the federal 8(a) program, limitations on tribal tax-exempt bond offerings, and value-added on-reservation products. LAW 9280 is a law class and will be graded based on the norms and expectations to which law students are normally held. AIST 4780 is an undergraduate course that will be assessed on a P/F basis according to the general norms and expectations for an upper division undergraduate course. Typically Offered: Spring.

AIST 4840 (s) Native American and Indigenous Literature (3 credits, max 6)

General Education: American Experience

Cross-listed with ENGL 3840

Significant texts, topics and traditions of American Indian, First Nations, and Indigenous writings in their literary and historical contexts, including the social and political circumstances out of which they arise. Emphasis on North America. Typically Offered: Varies.

Prereqs: ENGL 1102

AIST 4980 (s) Internship (1-16 credits, max 99)
