The Raven Scholars is an academic and social program for students who are on the autism spectrum (or otherwise neurodivergent) by providing peer mentoring, coordination of campus services, and opportunities to improve academic and life skills. The program has a supported transition class, INTR 1010, to help develop organization, time management, and soft skills for students. The program is also here as a resource to support faculty, staff, and student groups on best practices on working with neurodivergent individuals.

Students may apply for the Raven Scholars program here: <https://www.uidaho.edu/current-students/cdar/raven-scholars/program-application> (<https://www.uidaho.edu/current-students/cdar/raven-scholars/program-application/>).
